President Calls for Declaration of War on 3 Axis Vassals.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 2—President Roosevelt asked congress today to declare war on Bulgaria Hungary and Rumania

The Chief Executive, in a terse message to the house of representatives, said that these three countries had declared war on the United States as "the instruments of Hitler."

They "are now engaged in military activities directed against the United Nations and are planning an extension of these activities," he added.

The message did not go to the senate, since it was not in session

The text follows:

The governments of Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania have declared war against the United States. I realize that the three governments took this action not upon their own initiative or in response to the wishes of their own peoples but as the instruments of Hitler. These three governments now are engaged in military activities directed against the United Nations and are planning an extension of these activities

"Therefore, I recommend that the congress recognize a state of war between the United States and Bulgaria, between the United States and Hungary, and between the United States and Rumania."

The declarations of war against these three minor axis partners was expected to be more or less of a formality, adding them officially to the list of countries with which the United States now is at war. So far, this government has declared war on Japan, Germany and Italy

RAF Ground Crews Happy As They Load Bomb Racks

By DREW MIDDLETON
AP War Correspondent

"AT A RAF BOMBER COMMAND BASE, June 2 — The greasy, grinning ground crews sang "We're Off to Bomb the Jerries" to the tune of "The Wizard of Oz" as they loaded incendiaries and high explosive bombs into the four-motored thunder birds preparing for last night's raid on Essen and the Ruhr

Scores of Sterlings, Halifaxes and Lancasters dotted the landscape. Mechanics, fitters and armorers swarmed around them. You could hear them whistle with admiration as the big bomb loads came out.

The air crews sat around in the sun and talked about everything but the war.

An earnest Scot demonstrated the Bobby Jones swing Leonard Johnson from Corpus Christi, Texas, boasted about Texas university football teams Johnson was going to fly one of the bombers The Scot was wireless operator and gunner in another. It was his tenth big show.

There was no speculation on what the target was to be Everyone kept his eye on the weather though. All felt in their bones that there would be a "scramble" if it remained clear

The only time they talked of the war was when a long string of trucks bearing big bombs came past Johnson smacked his lips

"Ah-ah," he said "More big stuff It looks like another big one

Traffic Violation Costs Justice Hugo Black $5

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 2—Driving in the wrong direction on Rock Creek parkway, which is one-way into Washington in the morning and one-way towards Maryland in the afternoon, cost Supreme Court Justice Hugo L Black, $5.

The jurist, it seems, failed to note either the one-way signs or the hour of the day, but Park Policemen J. W. Macon, who was riding along at the same time, called his attention to both and gave him a traffic ticket.

PIPELINE OPPOSED

WASHINGTON, June 2—In the face of unexpected opposition, the house leadership today had virtually abandoned legislation for construction of an oil pipeline and a barge canal across Florida as a means of transporting oil and gasoline to the eastern seaboard.

Pheasant and Bee Put Accident Jinx on Marion Driver

Mother Nature turned loose an accident blitzkrieg on a Marion motorist Sunday, causing him to figure in two freak accidents a mile apart. A pheasant and a bee were the causes.

The victim was Fred Maag, dispatcher for the Marion Rapid Transit Co. who with two friends narrowly escaped injury in the mishaps, which occurred on route 4 about seven miles south of Sandusky.

While on the way to Sandusky a large hen pheasant flew through the windshield of the Maag auto, shattering the entire right side of the glass Although glass flew in every direction no one was cut, Mr. Maag said.

On the return trip, about a mile south of the spot where the pheasant mishap occurred, a bee flew into auto, exciting the driver and finally resulting in the auto careening off the road and turning over. No one was injured and the auto was damaged only slightly.

New Pay Proposal Offered in Congress

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The war department, seeking to break a congressional deadlock over the military pay adjustment bill, today was reported to be urging a compromise under which lowest ranking personnel in the army, navy and marine corps would receive $40 cash monthly and $10 in non-negotiable government bonds.

Authoritative sources said this proposal was advanced as an alternative to the $50 a month pay scale demanded by the house and the $42 voted by the senate A joint conference committee has been unable to reconcile the two figures.

GERMANS FLEE RUHR CITIES IN MASS EXODUS

20,000 Reported Killed in First Gigantic Air Raid on Cologne.

By The Associated Press

Another destructive assault fell upon the heart of Germany's war foundries before dawn today when nearly 1,000 RAF bombers smashed at the city of Essen site of the giant Krupp armament works, even as the Germans were reported fleeing in a mass exodus from the Rhineland.

Altogether, Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced, a total of 1,036 British planes thundered over the reich on missions of ruin during the night

Churchill promised, too, that raids of even greater severity would develop "when we are joined, as we soon shall be by the air force of the United States.

It was the second titanic blow at Adolf Hitler's military strength in 48 hours, capping Saturday night's 1,250-plane attack on Cologne, 35 miles southwest of Essen, in which private advices to the New York Times declared about 20,000 Germans were killed and 54,000 wounded.

The Times dispatch said three-fifths of Cologne's 600,000 inhabitants were being officially evacuated chiefly to Munich and that the entire populations of Aachen Duesseldorf, Wuppertal, Mainz and other Rhineland cities were fleeing to safer zones

Planes Carry 6,000 Men

London quarters indicated the RAF planes manned by 6,000 fliers probably rained about 6,000,000 pounds of incendiaries and high-explosive bombs in the attack on Essen, key raid center on a main line to Berlin

Thirty-five RAF planes were acknowledged missing, nine fewer than Saturday night's loss of 44 This was still far below the 10 per cent danger-zone for losses.

A British air ministry communique said giant four-motored Stirlings, Lancasters and Halifaxes, some of the 'n able to carry four tons of bombs each "pressed home the attack most effectively."

Great fires were reported engulfing Essen as the last of the raiders turned back

Churchill said most of the 1,036 RAF planes turned loose over Germany during the night engaged in the raid on Essen and to a cheering parliament he announced that other German cities would be subjected to "an ordeal the like of which has never been experienced in any country in continuity, severity or magnitude"

German night raiders, following up their retaliatory attack Sunday night on the ancient cathedral city of Canterbury, struck back with an assault on another English town, Ipswich.

North Africa Front

On the flaming North African front, Italian headquarters asserted that axis columns had "broken" the stubborn resistance of British forces encircled near El Ualeb, 40 miles southwest of Tobruk, while in London Prime Minister Churchill declared that Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's plans for his initial offensive "have gone completely awry."

London military quarters estimated that more than 50 per cent of Rommel's armored formations in advanced areas of the desert battlefield had already been destroyed.

"We have every reason to be satisfied and more than satisfied with the course the battle so far has taken," Churchill said

"Fierce fighting still is proceeding and will go on"

The British war leader said losses had been inevitably heavy

KRUPP WORKS IN ESSEN HIT BY HUGE FORCE

Great Armada Is Second in Three Days To Blast German Cities.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 2 — The RAF turned the lethal, devastating might of 1,036 RAF planes on Germany last night, almost all of them on the region of the Nazi arsenal city of Essen, Prime Minister Churchill announced today.

The second of the crushing raids which the RAF made against the sources of Adolf Hitler's military strength in three days struck at the home of the huge Krupp munitions works and Churchill promised that more of even greater severity would follow "when we are joined as we soon shall be, by the air force of the United States"

The Essen raid came after a pause of but one night, when bad weather held the RAF's great bomb-carrying air armada grounded after the mammoth attack by considerably more than 1,000 British bombers on Cologne.

35 Bombers Lost

Again, British losses were relatively slight for an air offensive of such magnitude Churchill said 35 bombers had failed to return.

He told the house of commons that the raiders had sown numerous and widespread fires that night and the two raids introduced "a new phase in the British air offensive against Germany which will put the enemy to an ordeal the like of which never has been experienced in any country in continuity, severity or magnitude"

He cautioned the British, however, not to expect all future raids to be "above the four-figure scale" in number of planes adding that "methods of attack will be continually varied according to circumstances"

Hardly before the last of the night bombers had rolled down on their home bases, the day shift of Britain's stepped-up offensive was in the clear air early today, streaking for the French coast

Just as the Germans sought to repay for the desolation of Cologne with a retaliatory attack Sunday night on the ancient cathedral city of Canterbury, they announced today that another old-world English town, Ipswich had been the target of their night air blows

United States observers were believed to have gone over again with the RAF

U. S. Ready Soon

They were preparing, presumably, for what Lieut Gen Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States army air force, yesterday called the hope of American fliers "very soon to fly and fight beside the RAF" in attacks which the Germans "cannot meet, defeat or survive."

(The German radio said British planes attacked western and northwestern Germany and that more than a score of bombers were reported shot down)

School Board Studies Union's Request To Act As Teachers' Bargaining Agent

Status of Negotiations Previously Begun by Marion Education Association Uncertain.

The question of who will represent Marion city teachers on a committee to discuss the salary schedule with the board of education was raised yesterday at a monthly board session in the administration building.

George Wilson of the Harding High school faculty, president of the newly organized Marion Federation of Teachers, Local No 715, A F of L affiliate, appeared before the board at the opening of the meeting and reported that the federation had passed a resolution to the effect that it would like to have a committee of its members work with the board "on the idea of an improved salary schedule"

The lengthy discussion, which Mr Wilson said he had not foreseen when he presented the federation's resolution, was followed by a business session in which the board accepted two resignations, adopted a recommendation for new text books in the fourth fifth and sixth grades, and was informed that G F Horn of Cleveland is anticipating a report from the board on his recommendations resulting from a recent school hearing survey

Immediately upon hearing Mr Wilson's request, Dr F L Thomas, vice president who presided in the absence of Harry J Barnhart, who is in the east, asked "Would the committee work with the committee from the Marion Education association"

Favors One Committee

Mr. Wilson replied that he didn't see the need of two committees, particularly since the federation was the organization which represented teachers only

The Marion Education association, made up of the teachers, principals and superintendent of the city schools system for the purpose of program and business meetings on subjects of interest to school workers had made its request to the school board for salary increases before the teachers' union was organized

When the union presented its request yesterday to be recognized as the bargaining agent for teachers on salary matters, the board immediately raised the question of whether it should continue its work with the Marion Education association committee or with the union, and this began the prolonged discussion. Yesterday was the first time the union had made a formal request to the board to act as bargaining agent

Several questions were brought up during the discussion, including whether the act of unionizing brought the teachers under the Wagner labor act.

"No Dissension"

Mr. Wilson told the board in response to a question that there is no dissension between the two organizations and that he will be the association's delegate to the National Education association in Denver this summer.

He said the union was interested solely in the question of teachers' salaries, since its membership does not include principals, the superintendent, custodians or secretaries.

Mr. Wilson said he had not yet appointed the union's salary committee

Supt Holt said he had been informed by Mr Smith that he was in the process of naming the education association's salary committee

In the end it was agreed that Supt L E Holt should contact the president of the education association and see how the education association felt about the federation's request.

"All we want is for you two groups to get together," J D Torrance, clerk of the board, said "We want a committee"

PRISONER SLAIN AT MANSFIELD

Fellow Convict To Be Charged with Murder in Reformatory Stabbing.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O, June 2—In a life and death struggle down a cellblock corridor, an inmate of the state reformatory was slashed to death by another convict last night.

Thirteen wounds were found on the body of Charles Dickerson, 31, and Prosecutor Harold Lutz said murder charges would be filed against 19-year-old Ernest Moore

Lutz said Moore told him he stabbed Dickerson because the prisoner "ratted" on him. Twelve infractions of reformatory regulations had been placed against Moore recently, but Lutz said Dickerson was not to blame.

The battle started while a group of prisoners was returning from a mess hall. Lutz related it thus

Moore met Dickerson and plunged a blade fashioned from scissors into his stomach. Dickerson fought free and raced down the corridor, with Moore close behind, thrusting the blade into Dickerson's back time after time Immediately behind Moore came Guard George S. Ewing, but he was unable to overtake the two until Dickerson fell mortally wounded. Moore then was cornered and overpowered and lodged in the county jail.

He was sentenced from Seneca county to serve one year to age for auto theft and carrying concealed weapons Dickerson was admitted from Licking county in 1934 to serve 1 to 20 years for cutting with intent to kill.

BIG CONVOY REACHES NORTH RUSSIAN PORT

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 2—A large United Nations convoy carrying American and British war supplies to Russia has reached a north Russian port after a running battle of five days and nights against German U-boats and well over 100 Nazi planes, the British announced today.

With almost constant daylight now in the far north waters, the admiralty said this was the most difficult time of the year to push convoys through the route.

But in spite of such conditions, the British indicated only six or seven allied ships were sunk, calling the German claim of bagging 18 ships an "exaggeration of over 175 per cent"

(The Germans announced last Friday that 17 ships totaling 114,000 tons had been sunk by attacks on the convoy during several days)

The first attack was delivered the evening of May 25 by Heinkel torpedo-carrying planes and Junkers 88 dive-bombers These were beaten off with no loss, the admiralty said.

But thereafter the German attacks were virtually uninterrupted until last Saturday, the admiralty added

The admiralty said one Heinkel and two Junkers bombers were shot down, two more planes were probably destroyed and two others damaged

Greyhound Buses Go On

NEW WARTIME SCHEDULES

The transportation needs of America-at-war have made it necessary to change Greyhound schedules beginning tomorrow. This new service has been arranged in full cooperation with the Office of Defense Transportation.

Today the important thing is to make every bus work full time—keeping vital traffic on the move. To achieve this purpose, Greyhound is introducing many changes—diverting buses to more essential routes—reducing driving speeds—eliminating Expresses and Limiteds and many "second sections"—unifying service with other bus companies in some cases—conserving tires and vital materials in every way.

Be sure to ask about the new schedules before you take a trip. We hope you will not be inconvenienced, crowded or delayed. But if you are, please be lenient—the war effort comes first with Greyhound as it does with you.

TERMITE DAMAGE SERIOUS PROBLEM

Few people are able to detect termite infestation until much damage has been done, says Emery T. Smith of the Buckeye Terminix Co. During the Spring months termite swarmers, known as "Flying Ants" emerge from the colony to establish new nests.

This indicates that thousands of destructive workers have been left behind to continue their damaging effects. Smith offers detailed information and free inspection by Phoneing Mansfield. Dial 1538-1, representative office of Buckeye Terminex Co., of Columbus, Ohio.

"Then if I had a small part—the scouts would see me."

"Unless they're stone blind," said Paul. He took one of Kathleen's hands, and laid it against his cheek—a gesture he was using that week in the first act of the play. "You are mighty easy to look at."

"And you are going to give me a chance, then, you" said Kathleen. She leaned forward so that she could watch Paul's face. "It means so much to me."

"I know it does," said Paul. "I'll bring the script of the play out to the barbecue. You can read it and tell me what you think."

"But I know I'll love the play," said Kathleen. "May I read about to you the role you have in mind for me?"

"Of course you may," said Paul. He pressed the hand he held to his lips—a gesture he used in the second act of the play. "You go with moonlight and roses," he said, his voice husky with emotion. "You spell romance—Kathleen, my sweet one."

"Thank you. Kathleen said. "I love hearing you say things like that to me, Paul."

She had forgotten completely that only a short time before, when with Joe Neely, she had used the expression on "sentimental nonsense."

Sarcasm

It was one o'clock in the morning when Joe walked over to the barn.

"Sorry to interrupt such a charming scene," he said, "but I'm a working man. I have to get home for some sleep." He smiled at Kathleen, who edged away from Paul. "Mind going now?"

"Certainly not," Kathleen said. "I've been wondering what was keeping you."

"And I," said Joe, "thought you were coming back to the old tree. Ruby and I were discussing my play."

Kathleen got up, held out her hand to Paul. "Goodnight, Paul," she said. "Thanks so much for the helpful talk. I'm going to be pretty busy for the next few days getting the old farmhouse in shape for the party—but drop by whenever you feel like it."

"Thanks," said Paul. "I'll do that. Good-night and good luck." He turned to Joe. "Same to you, Neely. When does Ruby expect to produce your play?"

"We haven't gotten that far," said Joe. "Coming, Kathleen?"

Kathleen walked away with him. "You needn't have bitten the man's head off," she said, when they were getting into the car.

"What man?" said Joe—as if he didn't know.

"Paul, of course. He was only interested in the play. That's all."

"Maybe. But I didn't like the sarcasm I detected in his voice."

"That was your imagination," said Kathleen.

"My imagination is never sarcastic," Joe retorted.

They rode back to town in silence. But Kathleen's silence was a pleasant one—that is, to herself. In spite of the strained relations that had sprung up between her and Joe, her heart was singing. Matters were certainly looking up for her—and she wasn't going to worry her head about Joe and their disagreements.

Cozy Picture.

"You and Paul made a cozy picture—sitting with your backs to the old barn," Joe said, as he brought the car to a standstill in front of the Vaughan residence. "Terribly cozy—and romantic."

"Really?" said Kathleen. "You saw us that way because you'd just made a cozy and romantic picture with Ruby—sitting beneath the old oak tree."

"Maybe." Joe got out, held the car door open for Kathleen. "How about a date one night this week? Bette Davis is going to be on at The Galax Theater."

"Sorry, Joe," said Kathleen. "I'm not making any dates. I've got so much to do—digging up stuff to carry out to the farm for the party. The place has to be almost completely done over—I mean cleaned from cellar to attic."

"Working nights?"

"Partly, yes. But I'm going to do a lot of reading too. I want to study some parts so to be able to show Paul and Ruby that I have ability."

"Oh, that!"

"Yes, that," said Kathleen. "But you needn't take such an unpleasant tone. I'm not being unpleasant about you giving so much time to writing your play."

"No, you're not," said Joe. "But that's because you're more or less glad to have me occupied. It gives you more time to spend with Paul and Fred."

Kathleen sighed. "It's no use, Joe," she said. "You will keep on trying to pick a quarrel. I don't see why we can't go on acting like adults—instead of children. You have your ambition, and I have mine—and we should be mutually helpful."

"That," said Joe, "sounds like something you'd read in a book."

"There you go again, saying something nasty!" Kathleen flared. "Good night, Joe—I'm tired. There's no need standing here like this, if we're not going to say something constructive."

"Good night," said Joe. "I wish to heaven you'd stop talking like a phonograph record, or something—and be yourself."

1,800 TYPES OF WAR JOBS FOR WOMEN

Survey Discloses Many Kinds of Work They Can Handle.

A compilation by the occupational analysis section of the United States Employment Service shows there are more than 1,800 war occupations and 900 non-war occupations suitable for women, according to a report received by Fred B. Scherff, manager of the Marion office of the service.

"Occupations which generally have been considered to be suitable only for men are found to contain certain phases that do not entail excessive physical exertion and that could be taught within a reasonably short time," according to the report.

An example cited is the occupation of precision lens grinder which usually takes years of training for efficiency in all aspects of the occupation. However, certain phases can be learned within a comparatively short time, and women have been found to be adaptable to the tasks.

Mr. Scherff said that as more men enter the armed services and as war industries expand women will be employed in increasing numbers both in war plants and in civilian jobs left vacant by men.

Here's How You Can Help in U. S. Salvage Program

Mrs. Marion, here's one of your most important war jobs.

Save rubber, scrap metal, rags.

Your son or husband or sweetheart or brother—your soldier out there on the battle front—needs them.

Don't save excelsior, peach kernels, razor blades, bottle tops, old felt hats—not at present. Do not save any more paper. The shortage of paper no longer exists. The people have responded so splendidly that there is actually a surplus.

By all means save everything you have in rubber—tires, heels, hot water bottles, hose, jar rings, the dog's ball, the baby's teething ring, that old rubber elephant the darling once liked to play with, gloves, overshoes, bathing caps, raincoats . . .

Maybe you've already disposed of some of these things in your local salvage program. But more of them will accumulate in the attic and cellar and garage. Don't give away articles that you will have to replace immediately. Keep the things you really need and give the salvage folks the waste.

Keep metal, rubber and rags separate. Flatten out cartons and boxes. Tie in neat bundles, keep dry and clean.

Marion Seaman Uses Airliner To Spend Leave Here

Seaman Marcus W. Redmond a ship's cook, third class returned to San Francisco early Monday by air after visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Redmond of 874 Bennett street, one Wednesday.

Mr. Redmond recently returned to the United States from Hawaii where he was stationed during the Dec. 7 attack on Pearl Harbor. At the time of the attack he was aboard an American warship which was credited with only slightly damaged by Japanese dive bombers.

It was the first time he had been home in nearly three and a half years. His twenty-first birthday will be June 5, but because his furlough was only for eight days he was unable to remain here for a birthday anniversary dinner. A family dinner, attended by the parents, two brothers, Maynard Hunt, both of Marion, and two sisters, Mrs. Verna Worden and Mrs. Zelda Jones, both of Marion was held yesterday at the parent's home.

He arrived in Columbus Wednesday by airliner from San Francisco. He was met at Port Columbus by his mother and sister, Mrs. Jones.

Lewis Harrison Jr. of Columbus will take place a week from Saturday.

Appointments for the party were in pastel shades.

The award for high score in bridge was won by Mrs. Ralph Pauley. Mrs. Ralph E. Cheney, mother of Miss Cheney, was presented the consolation prize.

Systematic Bond Buying Plan for Farmers Urged

The farmers of Marion county are being asked to save a substential share of each farm product sale by investing in United States War Bonds and Stamps at the time they receive the money. "The farmer of Marion county will be an important factor in the success of this vital quota drive," said Elmer J. Schoenlaub, Marion county chairman of the War Bond campaign. "Only through regular participation, however, on the part of every citizen can we measure up to the goal that we have now and to the goals which will be given us in the approaching months.

"People in cities and towns with monthly or weekly income will invest regularly in War Savings. We know that the income of the farmer comes at irregular intervals and that the amount depends on price and yield and so we ask that he invest a share of his income every time he receives income. A share of egg-money is important. A share of crop and stock income is important. America needs the use of farm money now and is giving you an opportunity to provide a nest egg for future years of uncertain prices. Make market-day your bond-day!"

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

A Newcomer In Church Sunday Noon

Editor of The Star: I am a newcomer to Marion. I have always sung in a church choir wherever I am. I am a young man with a fairly decent supporting tenor voice and really like to sing.

With the object in mind of finding a church where I could perhaps sing I attended one this morning.

The exterior of the church was rather impressive especially for a neighborhood church. I stopped in front and spoke rather diffidently to a man who stood beside his car.

"Services begin at 10:30, don't they?"

"Yes, that is right," he agreed.

I stood there beside him in silence for a minute, and as there seemed to be two entrances I asked, "Is that the entrance to the Sunday school rooms?" and indicated one of the doors.

"Yes," he again answered. "I believe both of them are."

"Oh, you don't attend?"

"No," he answered again in monosylables. "I'm waiting for my wife to come out."

What little time I had stood there, another gentleman had stood on the steps with an occasional disinterested glance in my direction. However he did not speak, and after my abortive first attempt, I did not again try it.

I gathered a little courage, and entered one of the doors anyway. I had a choice of two or three blank doors inside then, and happily chose the one that led into the auditorium.

It was really beautiful inside. Well proportioned balconies jutted gracefully out into the generously planned room, and restful shades of walls further carried out the atmosphere of spaciousness.

The audience was very well mannered. Few curious glances were thrown at the complete stranger entering the church. No one was so brash as to nod at him. And I can imagine that they would have been horrified to think of speaking to a stranger in the house of God.

One kind-faced gentleman handed me a book. I looked up to smile my thanks, but found that he was looking elsewhere.

As I listened to the sermon I was finally rewarded with two interested glances. One was from a little boy who sat in front of me. He took a little time out from his reverential scuffing with his friends to glance at me curiously as I sang. The other glance was from a very attractive young woman who sat across the aisle from me. However, when I attempted a smile, I suddenly become transparent, and she was looking at the beautiful walls behind me.

After the services were over, I bravely started to linger on my way to the door, but could not quite do it.

The minister shook my hand as I passed by him and very kindly said "I'm very glad to see you." I started to say something, but with a benevolent smile he gently but firmly pushed me on and said the same thing to the next person.

I hope you will print this letter to the Editor, as I am wondering if this is a composite example of the churches of Marion.

Still hopefully yours,

JOHN BAILEY, JR.

Lochner Predicts Nazi Drive On Turkey in June or July

...alysis of Adolf ... written by ... the German ... Pulitzer prize ... of The As... ... German cor... ...ation for war ... up to last ... ...on information ... the censorship ... was written by ... the repatriation ... which ... ...days yesterday.

BY LOUIS P. LOCHNER

...ht, June 1 — Some ... — possibly even ... — Adolf Hitler ... the command for ... on the en... front. More than ... to march through ... in order to exe... his famous pincer ...

...nation came to me ... day of my stay in ... a German source ... the know of things ... doubt its veracity. ... see-saw struggle on ... Russian front, my informant pointed out, is merely a preparation action, a cleaning of the boards for the major action this is impending.

Unless the United Nations spoil Hitler's game by really executing a second front in the west quickly and efficiently, thereby compelling Hitler to take large contingents of his troops and his air force away from Russia, this is what is scheduled to happen:

Hitler will, as usual, attempt to confound his enemies by surprise—surprise both as to the time of striking and as to new weapons designed during the long winter of comparative inactivity at the front.

"We have a whole new bag of tricks," my informant boasted.

Once Russia is smashed and prostrate—so Hitler still seems to think—the western world will be grateful to him for having removed the curse of Communism from the earth and will come to terms with him.

But to defeat Russia, he must have the oil of the Caucasus. And he can best take the Caucasus by a pincer movement. In other words one section of his gigantic army must approach the Caucasus by way of Turkey and Iran.

"Iran is practically ours already," my informant said, confidently. "England has had to take most of her troops out of there and hurry them down to India. There isn't any love for the Russian troops stationed there. Germany will be welcomed as a liberator."

Fearing that he had probably gone too far, he would not comment on Turkey. The name of one German person slipped out, however, as booked to leave for Turkey shortly. This man often precedes the troops.

Turkey's position has long been a matter of doubt. One must not forget that the German representative in Turkey is wily Ambassador Franz Von Papen, for whom diplomatic intrigue is duck soup. Despite innumerable rumors of his early recurrence — promptly usually started by the Nazis themselves to confound the enemy — Franze, Papen has been quietly at work softening up the Turks.

It was interesting for us during our internment at Bad Nauheim to follow the accounts in the daily German press of the trial in Turkey of Von Papen's would-be assassins. It was obvious that the German public was being prepared to realize how Russian agents were trying to undermine the Turkish state and endanger her neutrality.

From this, one may deduce that if Turkey decides to cast her lot with the Axis, the day may come when Turkey will invoke German assistance to "protect" her from Bolshevism, if she decides to oppose a German march-through. Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop may some Sunday morning at daybreak in June or July summon the few remaining foreign correspondents in Berlin to the Wilhelmstrasse to inform them that the German army was now on its way through Turkey to save the Ottoman state from Russian communism, the British secret service and "American Jewish Intrigue."

WEST SEES FIRST BALLOONS, GAS MASKS

Barrage Bags Protect All Vital Defense Points.

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1—The gas masks, the steel helmet and the barrage balloon—all of them preparations against enemy attack which official Washington is sure may come at any time—become commonplace sights along the Pacific coast today.

A survey disclosed that countless balloons, probably surpassing even Britain's balloon barrage, now protects every strategic military point along the west coast, from San Diego to Seattle.

These captive gas bags are designed to keep enemy planes high enough to impair the bombardier's aim, and to help the anti-aircraft gunners.

The usefulness of such concentrations was proved in England, where many a raiding Nazi plane crashed to destruction after snagging steel cables dangling from the high-flying balloons.

Completion of the installation work came while west coast residents, mindful of warnings by Secretary of War Stimson and Civilian Defense Director James M. Landis, concentrated on new civilian defense measures.

Policemen, firemen and air raid wardens were issued gas masks. Steel helmets also were passed out to San Diego police, who went on a 12-hour shift with no days off.

Southern California civilian defenders received gas masks. Forty thousand were distributed in Seattle, and more than 30,000 in the San Francisco bay region.

Units of Lewis' Mine Workers To Withdraw

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, June 2 — Two deposed field representatives of the United Mine Workers district 50 were prepared today to ask the CIO to oust district 50 [illegible] from John L. Lewis' UMW, at the request of Cleveland's seven locals.

Wendell R. Scholtz, who lost his post in February, said he and Edward S. Vayson, whose job ended Sunday, had been chosen at a meeting of 64 officers and shop stewards from the Cleveland locals to ask CIO President Philip Murray and the CIO executive board, which meets in Washington tomorrow, to form a new international union in place of district 50.

The split of the UMW has no geographical limitations, and extends not only in the gas, coke, chemical, cosmetics and dairy industries. At the UMW's policy committee meetings in Washington last week, at which Murray was ousted as UMW vice president, district 50 accused CIO leaders of sabotage of organization efforts and treason to labor.

Bomb Damage to German Morale

BRITAIN's mass attacks on Cologne and Essen and the promise of greater raids to be made against other German cities have revived hopes of winning the war in the air—or at least of weakening Germany so seriously that invasion would be little more than a military formality.

To make this plausible it is being explained for skeptics that the British raids on German cities are beyond comparison with anything previously done. They are supposed to make the German blitzes against British cities strictly minor league attempts.

Perhaps this is true, but it still may be doubted whether the United Nations, confident of supremacy in the air, are going to win the war there without achieving supremacy on land and security on the oceans. Only one thing would bring Germany to its knees without victory in all three dimensions of modern warfare.

The bomb damage to German morale would have to be infinitely greater than it was to British morale when the luftwaffe was demonstrating the possibilities of aerial barrage. Many honestly believe it will be; William Shirer, for one, in his "Berlin Diary," argued that Germans simply were not mentally prepared to endure bombing raids. The point remains to be decided. Perhaps concussion will shatter German morale beyond repair.

Meanwhile, one source of satisfaction in the raids is unaffected by their direct effect on the outcome of the war. At long last, Germans are discovering what the wars they have been so eager to fight mean to civilian victims of their national blood lust. In World war I they began the experiment against English cities with the aerial bombardment that now is backfiring at them lethally night by night, day by day, week by week. It may not be extravagant to hope that the next time a paranoiac Hitler invites the German people to share the thrill of putting their feet on civilization's neck they will remember that the last time they tried it the consequences came home to roost—not on the soil of Belgium and France, but in demolition bombs that dropped on the soil of Germany, itself.

No Nazi Radio Appeal

THE chairman of the federal communications commission, James L. Fly, thinks it's worth boasting about that when a German radio broadcast told United States listeners to ask their libraries for books containing anti-British propaganda they didn't ask. It's worth boasting about all right, but the emphasis should be on the work done to accomplish such a condition.

In the United States, a library is an organization that deals with books, not propaganda; it is for people who want information, not prejudice. A radio is an instrument that makes it possible to listen to comedians cracking old jokes with new twists, soap operas, pep talks about breakfast food, music and to turn off anything that fails to be amusing. A radio listener, on the other hand, is a fellow who wants what he wants when he wants it. As often as not he may not want what he's getting, which means that he is going to quit taking it.

This differs sharply from the situation in Germany, where, by all accounts, the natives have been so long without similar privileges that they will risk their necks to hear what a foreign propagandist wants to pour into their ears, though of course if it happened to be about a harmful book they could read the authorities would have taken care of that in advance. A very thorough people, the Germans, so thorough that they've never missed a bet yet to cut their own throats.

Japan Will Bomb U. S.

SECRETARY of War Stimson's statement that his department expects retaliatory bombing by the Japanese to save face following the Doolittle expedition sounds like a warning, but may actually have the effect of reassurance. If inland cities are reconciled to bombing raids before the war is over, certainly there must be few residents of coastal cities not convinced by this time that the only uncertainties are when and where.

Certainly, every Pacific port and especially those with a special importance to the navy can expect to become a target. On the Atlantic coast, New York City is almost a certainty to be given at least token raids. Likewise, no naval installation on the Atlantic coast is safe.

The greatest danger is not the actual damage that might be done to physical property, but the confusion and hysteria that will ensue if the civilian population is not schooled in advance to accept this inevitable development of aerial warfare. Gen. Doolittle's exploit left Tokyo in a dither. It remains to be seen how New York or San Francisco would react.

Lack of Central Authority Blamed for Confusion Over Gas and Rubber.

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Inside congress a demand is arising for a look at divided handling of gas rationing and rubber, just as strong as the movement which forced consolidation of war production under Donald Nelson with such excellent results.

Threaded all through the Truman committee report are statements attributing our tire and gasoline gas rationing conditions to the division of authority among many government bureaus. Gross mistakes are mentioned in connection with failures in every phase of the problem (stock pile, synthetic rubber, etc.).

Bickering has resulted between Jesse Jones, war production board, Henderson, war department, Ickes and everyone else who has had anything to do with our prime civilian problem. But in every case, the committee goes back to division of authority as the root cause.

Of our failure to accumulate a rubber stock pile, the committee says there was division of authority between OPM Rubber Reserve Corp., the RFC subsidiary, and others, adding:

"It is possible that had complete authority and responsibility been centered in the hands of a single agency, the failure might have been avoided."

Concerning the inadequacy of our synthetic rubber planning, it mentions the conflict between the old Stettinius advisory committee and the reconstruction finance corporation as causing "great difficulty in obtaining a decision."

Of the whole mess today, it concludes:

"At the present time it appears the principal difficulties probably result from a lack of centralized and sole responsibility."

While the more spectacular clash of personalities involved in the committee's generous distribution of blame has been drawing most of the popular attention, this correctible cause of the whole existing muddled situation has been overlooked.

Disheartening aspect to the congressmen, however, is that a year and a half of agitation was necessary to cause centralized control of war production in Nelson, so ardently do the various officials fight to retain their authority. If it takes another year and a half before rubber and gas are put under single control, the war could be over.

President's Comment

The unsatisfactory state of rubber affairs in the government was illustrated again when President Roosevelt promised early solution by manufacturing tires other than rubber.

Around the war production board and the other government bureaus dealing with rubber, no explanation of what Roosevelt had in mind was available. It was said politely that the President was probably just talking off hand (meaning he did not know what he was talking about).

About 25 or 30 ideas for making wood, tarred rope or steel spring tires without rubber have been submitted to the national inventors council, but no government rubber authority believes these will solve the situation.

The other officials swear the public cannot expect tires of any kind for at least two or three years. They say the only possible solution is synthetic rubber, because no more than 40,000 to 50,000 tons a year is possible from Brazil.

They are pushing the butadiene process as fast as they can, but if they succeed in all their plans, they say they can furnish only enough tires for military and essential civilian (police, ambulance, etc.)

Even Donald Nelson was caught short by the President's optimism. His pessimistic statement (bounced on above mentioned facts) reached the public just before Mr. Roosevelt spoke, and Mr. Nelson thereupon emerged from his political, but not his rubber, difficulties by adding that he also hoped American ingenuity would save the situation.

Here again was a perfect example of division of authority resulting in chaos.

Gas Rationing

So also with the administration of gas rationing. Practically everybody has been speaking his official piece to the public. Even Assistant War Secretary Patterson issued a public warning a couple of weeks back, although no one seems to know exactly how he got in on that particular subject.

As matters stand now Petroleum Coordinator Ickes keeps track of oil and gas (censoring the figures also) and then tells Donald Nelson or Nelson's transportation Coordinator Eastman about it, and this party or these parties of the second part pass the word on to Leon Henderson, the party of the third part, who does the rationing through his organization.

Certainly gas rationing lacks singleheaded authority, just as rubber.

If one man could be appointed to run either or both, and all the rest told to shut up, existing confusion would at least be ended and a straight-line policy would be possible.

Suggestions Made for Relieving U. S. Problems of War Shipping.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THERE is no use complaining about things that can't be helped, and this is especially true in war time. He who complains without pointing to a remedy falls into the class of those who Mr. H. G. Wells once described as the Gawdsakers because they go about wringing their hands, crying "for Gawd's Sake, Let's do something." There has been some inspired comment in the past fortnight which is meant to suggest that Gawdsakers are exerting the current pressure on the subject of shipping, submarines, and the whole critical and paramount problem of transportation and supply.

It may be useful, therefore, to present in an orderly way, though of course only in the broadest and barest outline, the problem, the diagnosis, and the immediate steps which are judged to be necessary in order to develop the remedy.

Let us summarize the problem. Cargo ships are being sunk faster than they are being built. Axis submarines are being produced and commissioned faster than we are sinking them. Our regular naval forces, that is to say light cruisers and carriers and destroyers, are engaged in vital operations in the Pacific and in the North Atlantic. Our production of escort and patrol vessels, less powerful than destroyers but sufficient for convoy and anti-submarine duty, is late, is slow, and is inadequate.

Diagnosis

Now for the diagnosis and the remedial steps. Since the supply of shipping is short and in peril, it is indispensable that shipping be mobilized for essential military purposes, that no ships be wasted on inessential or inefficient voyages, and that no ships be risked except where the voyage is of high military value.

This required a separation, within the authority exercised by Admiral Land, of shipbuilding from ship operation. It has been done. Authority over shipbuilding has been delegated to Admiral Vickery, and over ship operation to Mr. Lewis W. Douglas. There was needed also the unreserved acceptance of two principles. One is that we are not now operating a merchant marine but a system of military supply. The other is that the ships of the United Nations constitute a common pool and are no longer to be regarded as competing merchant marine companies. The acceptance of these principles is implied in Admiral Land's choice of Mr. Douglas.

Second, since adequate standard naval forces are not now available on the Atlantic Coast and in the Caribbean, there is needed a mobiliation of improvised vessels and of aircraft for patrol escort, and rescue. The best that can be said here is that there is some light on the horizon and that the dawn is breaking. The command in the Gulf has been given to an officer who has been fighting submarines from Iceland. There are some other evidences of action and there are prospects of action.

But they are insufficient, and the reason they are insufficient is that in the navy department and in the shore stations, the hard cake of bureaucratic routine has not yet given way to bold initiative, determined improvisation, and inspiring leadership. Departmental ideas of what ships can be used, of what training and qualifications the seamen must have, of what can not be done with the means available — all these ideas are very strong, and they do not yield easily. So it is difficult to see how the dead hand of routine is to be lifted without the selection of a chieftain of commanding personality and with iron authority for the purpose of this campaign over the bureaus in Washington and the sub-bureaus along the coast.

Effect of Subs

Third, since the submarine is defeating and indeed nullifying the production of the shipyards, it is necessary to re-examine our merchant and naval building program. It may be necessary to take a very important decision, namely to combine the two pro-

National Lottery Question Revived

Heavy War Taxation Makes Gambling Attractive to Legislators.

FACED with the unpleasant duty of lowering income tax exemptions, adopting a general sales tax, or both, in an election year—and possibly a withholding tax or some plan of enforced savings—members of congress are turning a more attentive ear than at any time since the low point of the depression to projects for a national lottery.

Three bills to raise war revenues through prize drawings by the treasury have been offered in congress since the United States entered the war. While there is little likelihood that any of these measures will reach the floor at an early date, lottery projects will increase in attractiveness as taxation becomes more burdensome and federal deficits mount.

Lottery bills were introduced recurrently during the decade of the 30's. Most of the familiar arguments against lotteries and other forms of gambling were rehearsed before the house ways and means committee hearings on the Kenney bill in 1934. Lotteries had a long record of graft and corruption before they finally were banished from the United States. While it was true that some 30 foreign governments received substantial revenues from lotteries, these did not include the more enlightened governments of England, Canada and Japan. Lotteries were supported by the lower strata of society and tended to become a regressive form of taxation; they resulted in excessive debt, theft and wasteful expenditure of money more urgently needed for other purposes.

State legislatures were considering lottery measures at the same time, but all of these were abandoned because of conflict with state and federal statutes.

WAR developments have given new arguments to those who seek to establish a national lottery and have strengthened the popular appeal of some of the arguments brought forward during the depression. Revenues needed for war are staggering in amount; where to get the money is a difficult problem. The government is anxious to withdraw excess purchasing power from the hands of consumers to avert price inflation. It is argued that a national lottery would constitute a system of voluntary taxation.

As for the argument that a lottery would encourage a spirit of gambling, lottery advocates say the uncertainties of the future have promoted a spirit of recklessness already in the warring countries and that high wartime wages have elevated gambling to the status of a major industry.

Sponsors of lottery bills have drawn encouragement from the results of an American Institute of Public Opinion poll published Jan. 31, 1942. To the question, "Would you favor lotteries run by the federal government to help pay part of the cost of carrying on the war?" 54 per cent of those responding answered Yes. Only 37 per cent answered in the negative; 9 per cent were undecided. Those who favored a government lottery claimed that "people are going to gamble anyway, and some of the money might as well go to the government."

A royal commission appointed to investigate proposals to establish a British lottery submitted an unfavorable report to parliament in 1933. It held that the government should not engage in activities which were offensive to many British subjects, that the psychological effects of lotteries were bad, that the income to be received would be trifling in comparison with the government's needs. In the same year, France reestablished the government lottery that it had abolished in 1836. In its first year the French lottery brought in $480,000,000. Commenting on the French lottery, L. M. Hussey wrote in the October 1934 issue of Harper's: "It seems clear that the lottery was born by a certain amount of political chicanery out of a pressing need for money. So its parentage is not entirely respectable. After all the lottery was unnecessary. Veterans could have been cut, certain help could have been held back from the farmer, and new taxes could have been imposed."

MODERN government lotteries are of two principal kinds—the class lottery and the loan (or interest) lottery.

Chief characteristic of the class lottery is that the prize drawings do not all take place at one time, but are spread over certain intervals of time, with the ticket price divided into as many equal parts as there are drawings. To participate in the first drawing, the subscriber need make only the first proportionate payment. To participate in the drawings of the following classes, a ticket which did not win a prize in the first class must be renewed by payment of the proportionate price for each of the subsequent classes. Tickets are customarily divided into shares, entitling the purchaser to a pro-

TEN YEARS AGO.

It was Thursday, June 2, 1932.

Senator Norris, (R) of Nebraska, proposed a substitute for a flat 10 per cent cut in all civilian government salaries an exemption of those below $1,500 and a scale of reductions ranging from 5 to 25 per cent on salaries above that figure. The cuts were under consideration as part of a move to balance the national budget and "reassert the stability of the government."

A news report described Hopewell, N. J., the home of the Lindberghs, as having lapsed back into its once quiet existence after having been the center of the world's spotlight for several months as the result of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping and slaying.

An evening of golf followed by a dinner marked the formal opening of the season at the Marion Country Club. The program was in charge of a committee headed by Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. LaMarche.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Edmondson of New York City, guests, were awarded honors for low net at golf. Other awards went to Miss Mary Ainsworth and Clifford Rawley, low gross, Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Prendergast, blind hole, and Mr. and Mrs. R. J. LaMarche the largest number of 6's.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It was Friday, June 2, 1922.

Negotiations of international bankers regarding a $1,000,000,000 consortium for Germany had struck a snag and there were indications the Germans would not get a great international loan despite a favorable reply they had returned to demands of the inter-allied reparations commission. A writer in "The Matin" at Paris reported: "It is not true that France is to be blamed for hindering the loan. The stumbling block the bankers were unable to overcome was that America demands payment of the war debts. Therefore England refuses to cancel the war debts owing to her."

Completed plans were announced by the Republican Club of Marion county for a rally on June 16. It was to climax a campaign for new members in which 250 had already been enrolled. Among the speakers were to be Harvey C. Smith, secretary of state and Mayor Harry R. Radabaugh of Findlay, candidate for congress. Joseph D. Williamson, president of the club, said the goal was a roster of at least 1,000 members.

The feature picture at the Grand theater was "The World's Champion," starring Wallace Reid, and at the Marion the feature was "Two Minutes to Go," starring Charles Ray.

...business men who ...the S S Drotuning... from Berlin told us ...such speeches and ...are through with Hit... don't want to hear of ...ter of war."

They said the depressing effect upon the population of the capital was tremendous

Their experience was like ours five months previously: Our grocer, our baroer, our butcher, not to speak of our closer friends, literally cried when we made our last purchases or bade them farewell They are realized instinctively and from their recollection of the war of 1914-18 that America's entry into the war—forced by Hitler himself—would spell the doom of Germany.

Aboard the Drottningholm I heard an elderly lady, a refugee and obviously from Wurttemberg judging by her dialect, discuss the war with an old man whose speech indicated he came from East Prussia.

"The war simply must end this summer," the elderly woman said. "All the men from the front who come home on furlough tell us it is so terrible out east that they won't have another winter of it."

"Yes, that's the way we feel up our way," nodded the East Prussian

Adolf Hitler's declaration of war upon the United States showed a similar misgauging of the psychology of the masses

How explain Hitler's obvious weakening in psychological understanding?

Knew What People Wanted

There was a time when Hitler's sensibility in feeling out his way, with the crowds was nothing short of uncanny

Invariably I was impressed with der fuerrer's ability to be all things unto all men Hitler played with his audiences as an orchestra conductor plays with the members of his musical ensemble

His meetings often reminded one of the old revival meetings. Even the most hard-boiled seemed to "get religion", I. E, the Nazi religion of blood and soil

After Hitler became chancellor and later chief of state, he could seldom extemporize but had to read important pronouncements from prepared copy.

Yet these speeches too, during the first six or seven years of his dictatorship showed a remarkable psychological understanding of the German people

During one of my interviews some years ago I said to the German dictator, "We are all aware that you owe a great part of your success to your ability to win over the masses of the people by your own personal appeal in extemporaneous speeches Now that you are the head of government you must write out most of your pronouncements Does that not cramp your style?"

"Not at all" he replied "When I compose a speech I visualize the people I can see them just as though they were standing before me I sense how they will react."

That was some years ago Today his speeches don't have the same compelling power with his hearers

Now Lives Apart

The explanation seems to lie in the fact that Adolf Hitler now lives in a cloud-world of his own high up on Mt. Olympus, and that his contacts with the real world are carefully filtered by the coterie of confidants about him

In short, Hitler no longer sees his German people through his own eyes but through the strongly colored spectacles of his underlings

These underlings permit Hitler to hear only what they think he should hear.

Men in the German dictator's entourage have often told me that there are times when they must reveal no unpleasant facts to their chief as this might disturb the equilibrium of his temper and make him unfit to work at his problems. In course of time, Hitler's temper has become an excuse for withholding all sorts of facts he should know.

In the years that I have known him, he has become more and more unapproachable by the rank and file of the people and even by the rank and file of his faithful party members

The masses naturally are quick to sense this There is no longer that spontaneous enthusiasm which characterized the reaction of the crowds during the first years of the Hitler regime

DUKE OF WINDSOR CUTS SHORT VISIT TO U. S.

Returns to Nassau on "Urgent Business."

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 2 — The Duke of Windsor cut short his visit to the United States today to return to the Bahamas on "urgent business" less than 24 hours after his arrival for a series of conferences.

The British press service announced the duke's decision to fly back to the islands he governs, but gave no details of the business which called him Earlier a member of the duke's official party said he understood there had been "some sort of labor disturbance" at Nassau but that the situation was not serious

The duchess who arrived in Washington with the duke yesterday morning, is remaining at the British embassy Yesterday the duke and duchess were guests of the President and Mrs Roosevelt at a small luncheon and the duke began a series of conferences on the war effort.

Mexico Declares War on Partners of Axis

By The Associated Press

MEXICO CITY, June 2—Mexico took her place today as a full-fledged ally of the United Nations, casting her fortunes with the nine other Latin American republics linked in arms against the axis

Mexico's declaration of war as of May 22 was signed last night by President Manuel Avila Camacho without fanfare in his private residence On May 22 the Mexican cabinet decided that full belligerency was the only answer to submarine attacks on Mexican shipping

Mexico thus became the 27th United Nations ally and put before the axis an unbroken stretch of hostile coast in two oceans from Panama to the farthest reaches of North America.

COLUMBUS, O, June 2—Secretary of State John E Sweeney today ruled the Communist and the Social-Labor parties off the Ohio ballots this year.

ESSEN ATTACK

er, coastal and army cooperation commands attacked enemy bases in Germany, France and the low countries to guard the route of the Essen raiders indicated that the night's operations may have been of a magnitude possibly equalling the startling strength of the Cologne assault.

The losses were nine fewer than the 44 of Saturday night—still far below the 10 per cent losses which military authorities generally agree can be afforded by a successful air smash.

On a basis of comparison with the Cologne attack Essen probably was deluged under 6,000,000 pounds of incendiary and explosive bombs poured down from planes manned by 6,000 fliers

While the thousand bombers were hauling their deadly freight to the Ruhr, one of the largest "intruder" forces of the war—composed of American-made Boston and Hurricane fighter bombers—went hunting over the intervening occupied territory as they did on the night of the operations against Cologne

Drawing to themselves the attention of the German antiaircraft gunners, these forces bombed several airfields to blank out the night fighter defense and attack shipping and railroads in Holland Belgium and France

One Dornier bomber was reported shot down over Holland and several other German planes damaged

The air ministry news service announced that Spitfires and bomb-carrying Hurricanes made a large-scale sweep over the Gravelines and Hardelot area in northern France this morning shooting down one Fock Wolff 190 and damaging several others

One Spitfire section drove off a force of German planes which outnumbered them four to one the news service said while another section, tired of looking in vain for an air fight dropped to ground level to shoot up gunposts and German troops

16-Year-Old Boy Admits Killing Baby in Michigan

By The Associated Press

MARQUETTE, Mich, June 2—A 16-year-old boy described by police as apparently normal in all respects was held in the Marquette county jail today as the alleged killer of baby Gloria Jean Nault, who came to her death Sunday night

LINK BRITON'S VISIT TO NEW WAR FRONT

British Production Chief Coming to Washington.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 2— The imminent visit of Oliver Lyttleton, British production minister, was viewed by informed officials today as having a significant bearing on the question of opening a second European war front.

A four-fold purpose was seen in Lyttelton's forthcoming conferences with President Roosevelt War Production Board Chairman Donald M Nelson, and other top officials

These aims were reported to be:

First, to weld the two countries' production efforts into one common program

Second, to set up a combined U S-British production board, which would arrange for a pooling of productive facilities

Third, to give the British production chief a first-hand view of America's armament production lines at work, in order to quash any lingering doubts, concerning the volume of this country's war output.

Last, to discuss creation of an Anglo-American food board This probably would not take place until after America's own war food board, to be headed by Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard is announced by Nelson possibly this week

If military leaders of the United Nations have determined to open a Western European front—and well-placed persons believe such a decision has been made—production problems are of high strategic importance

Officials in close touch with the production effort here known to feel that the war could be brought to a turning point this year although victory could not be expected nearly so soon

Berlin Admits Attack on German Cities

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, (FROM GERMAN BROADCASTS), June 2—British bombers attacked several localities in western Germany, including Duisberg and Oberhausen, last night and 50 were shot down during the day and night, the German high command said today.

The raids were said to have been centered on residential quarters."

(Duisberg, Oberhausen and Essen—which the British said was the main target last night—form a tight triangle of cities in the industrial Rhineland.)

The German air force was said to have raided Ipswich, a port in South England, and to have repeated an attack on Canterbury with heavy-caliber bombs

The communique called the RAF raids "terror attacks directed solely against the civilian population."

Threat To Gestapo Rule Brings Fear To Nazi Hearts

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

...small wonder that Hitler's chancellery is said to be swept with consternation at the attempted assassination of Reinhard Heydrich, deputy chief of the dread German gestapo (secret police), in Czecho-Slovakia

It would be difficult to exaggerate the significance of this event for it emphasizes the burning spirit of that invisible front of conquered peoples who are only waiting for their chance to turn and rend their oppressors The great dread of this effort to exterminate powerful 'der henker' (the hangman) gives a measure of the determination of the workers of the Nazi yoke

This defiance of an organization upon which the fuehrer has depended so greatly to keep a tight rein both abroad and at home is reported to have resulted in arrests even in Berlin Any weakening of authority of the gestapo obviously creates a danger to Nazidom From Hitler's standpoint there is an unfortunate coincidence in the unprecedented British mould Since these will give a mighty fillip to the fighting spirit of the occupied countries and already are reported to have caused a panicky state of nerves in Germany's Cologne and Essen territories

It is an evil omen for Hitler that now the subjugated are rising even against der henker and the gestapo which has such limited powers for reprisal The invisible front is on the move.

Stiff Peace Proposed To Keep Nazis in Check

COLUMBUS, O, June 2—At wars end there should be a "stiff, hard peace to make sure Germany won't do this again," said Lord Halifax, the British ambassador, in reply last night to the question "Will there be another Versailles treaty?"

The ambassador added however, that it should be a "generous peace" economically to let the Germans live peaceably

He addressed the Columbus Chamber of Commerce at its annual banquet and answered written questions after an "off the record" speech

SCHOOL BOARD

Thomas V Thom Junior High school faculty were accepted, Miss Hoffman as of June 2 and Mr Greene as of May 15

Mr Wesp presented a request for a leave of absence for the duration of the war on the ground that he has accepted a civil service appointment as junior instructor of seamanship in one of the navy training schools

Mr Holt said he did not recommend a leave of absence under the board's ruling of October, 1940, covering men called into armed service

Dr. F L Thomas board member said he felt it was the same situation as men going into civil service on government construction work and Dr. F F Morgan, also a board member, said he agreed that a civil service job didn't come under the board's ruling

Text Books Recommended

In recommending the textbook adoptions, Mr Holt pointed out that the usual plan had been followed by having representatives of various book companies appear before the textbook committee and having the committee study the various books Recommendations for elementary history and social science books, made by Miss Alice Dombaugh, principal of the Oakland Heights school, and a committee of elementary teachers, were:

History—Fourth grade, "Other Lands and Other Times," 90 cents, fifth grade, "Life in Early America," 80 cents, sixth grade, "Life in Modern America," $1, all published by Ginn & Co Social Studies Books I, II, and III by Charles E. Merrill, publisher, at 90, 90 and $1.08 respectively were recommended

The committee on health and safety headed by J. C. Emmons principal of the Silver Street school, and including elementary teachers, recommended the following:

Fourth grade, "Safety Every Day," 50 cents; fifth grade, "Doing Your Best for Health," 81 cents, and sixth grade, "Building Good Health," 70 cents.

All recommendations were passed on favorably by the board.

Ready To Discuss Survey

Mr. Holt informed the board that Mr. Irons "is looking forward to hearing from us in regard to the recommendations which he made in his recent survey. I have reported to him that the pressure of other matters has prevented our meeting to discuss his recommendations."

Bills were paid, totaling $6,910.10, including coal and a new roof for the Harding building, and final bills of Mr. Irons totaling $146.88.

An increase of 20 cents a ton, from 70 to 90, was voted to the trucking concerns hauling the school's coal following a letter from the Millard Hunt Co. to the effect, that although the contract was on a basis of 70 cents a ton, conditions are such that members of the coal dealers association do not feel they can continue at that price. However, the letter stated, if the board did not see fit to allow the increase, the contract would be filled as written.

Frank C. Robinson, board member, said he felt the board should be fair about the matter Dr. Thomas said that the "coal situation" has been very pleasant, and Dr. Morgan said the board could hardly do otherwise than grant the increase.

Table, Chairs Loaned

Loan of a table and from 15 to 18 chairs was made to Marion County Rationing Coordinator John P. Probst. The equipment will be used in the new rationing headquarters on East Center street.

As in former years the board, upon request of Miss Edith Treat, Girl Scout executive, granted the Girl Scout council use of the Harding stadium dressing rooms during the day camp season, with the understanding that adult supervision be provided and that the council take care of all expenses.

Discussing a request from the retail board of managers of the Marion Chamber of Commerce that a cooperative salesmanship course be established at Harding next year, Mr. Holt said he also would investigate the possibility of installing a cooperative commercial course.

SECOND RADIO CLASS TO OPEN TONIGHT

Federal Course To Begin at 7 in Harding High.

Applications for the federal fundamental radio course which will be offered in classes starting tonight at 7 at Harding High school, will be accepted tonight.

Twenty-five applications have been filed and 10 more are wanted.

Dr C. W. Jarvis of Ohio Wesleyan university and J H. Smith of the Harding faculty will instruct the course.

A class recently completed the first course offered in Marion and opening of a second class was authorized by the government.

RESIDENTS OF RHINELAND CITIES FLEE RAF BOMBS

Mass Migration Starts from Threatened Areas.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 2—The record RAF raid on Cologne killed in the neighborhood of 20,000 persons, wounded 54,000, 20 per cent of them critically, and put in motion a mass migration from the Rhineland, the New York Times said today in a report credited to "private advices from competent neutral observers in Berlin."

Three-fifths of the inhabitants of Cologne — total population roughly 800,000—are being officially evacuated, mostly to the area of Munich.

The entire populations of Aachen, Duesseldorf, Wuppertal, Mainz and other cities have started a mass migration from the Rhineland in fear of further bombardment, it added.

Of the damage in Cologne, the New York Times said:

"Although details are lacking, it is understood from Berlin neutral quarters that roughly five-sevenths of Cologne's chemical and fine machine-tool industries have been completely wrecked."

RUNAWAY RACES AGAIN HIGHLIGHT MAJOR LEAGUE RESULT

N. Y. Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers Lead Leagues by Wide Margins.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 2—This year the major league clubs hoped for a couple of close pennant races. So what did they get? A pair of runaways by the same teams that triumphed last year.

Today, as both the major loops idled away an open date preparatory to another round of east-west scrapping, the solid champion New York Yankees were eight games ahead of the second rival in the American league and the Brooklyn Dodgers were six in front in the National league.

Neither Team Threatened

Furthermore, the first months of the season has produced not the liveliest threat to end either lead.

The Yankees were forced to concession their early pennant thirst with the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians for first place and the Dodgers were pushed on edge by the Cincinnati Reds, but the rest of the American league could be able to make a race of it until July 1.

The champions were not particularly impressive in the south and, although they had problems at first and third base, they made no effort to strengthen themselves, possibly in the belief that they already were strong enough to win and that there was no use making a spectacle of the other clubs.

Yet the Yanks are shaping up their form in spite of themselves. They have won 21 of their last 25 games without even getting up steam and look capable of winning by any margin they please.

Tigers Make Bid

As the standings indicate, the Detroit Tigers appear the strongest of the other clubs. Manager Del Baker has been rebuilding with youngsters and has received excellent pitching. In addition, Rudy York, the big Cherokee first baseman, is having a banner season.

The Chicago White Sox have started moving up after a pitiful beginning and the St. Louis Browns have strengthened themselves by acquiring Catcher Frank Hayes from the Philadelphia Athletics so that both these clubs

Riddle or Derringer To Hurl Against Phils Today.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., June 2—With three victories in four games as a starter, the Cincinnati Reds today continue an 18-game home stand which local baseball experts believe will make or break them for 1942.

Today's opposition is Philadelphia — something of a break for a club with a half dozen of its 25 players out with injuries, including regulars Frank McCormick, first baseman, and Mike McCormick, outfielder.

White Buck probably won't play any this week, and Mike will be out until about Aug. 1, four other cripples should be in shape by the time the Phils' series ends with a night game Wednesday.

The Redlegs are in a tie with New York for fourth on the .500 per cent mark.

In the last two weeks the Reds have won nine of 15, but .600 ball isn't good enough to put them up in the chase.

Elmer Riddle, whose only victory and complete game in six starts this year has been against the Phils, is today's likely hurler unless Paul Derringer, who lost by one run to the Phils two weeks ago, gets the nod. Si Johnson, who won that game from Derringer, is the Phils' probable choice.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

NEW YORK, June 2—You've been hearing a lot about those football teams the navy expects to have next fall—But now it turns out there may be some right good army teams, too. For instance, reports around Louisville say that Greasy Neale may become coach at Fort Knox. And the air corps technical school at Keesler Field, Miss., is lining up a ten-game schedule with such colleges as Miami, Alabama, Purdue and Texas Aggies on the list. Footnote: Connie Ryan, the whiz kid who was supposed to do so much good for the Giants this year, has been optioned to Jersey City.

Louisville in Fourth Place Is Only Team To Stack Up as Doped.

By The Associated Press

The American association season is almost two months old and the scramble for positions only faintly resembles pre-season forecasts.

The sailbirds have hit the bullseye only on Louisville, picked for fifth and now fifth. They named Milwaukee and Kansas City to finish second and third. Currently, they are first and second. The greatest miss thus far was the prediction for Columbus to repeat as champ. The Red Birds are tied with St. Paul for sixth and seventh.

The remainder of the picture has shaped up thus: Indianapolis, picked for fourth, now last; Minneapolis, sixth, now third; Toledo seventh, now fourth; St. Paul last, now tied for seventh.

One contest scheduled yesterday—Minneapolis at St. Paul—was postponed.

Likes Prospects of Playing for Jimmy Dyke.

BOSTON, June 2—The faintest shrug of the shoulders was the only reaction Jimmy Foxx, one of baseball's greatest moderns, exhibited when he experienced the most surprising shock in his 18 major league seasons—his sale to the Chicago Cubs by the Boston Red Sox after seven other clubs had waived him out of the American league.

"Well, it should be a very interesting experience," Foxx said. "Chicago is a great city and I'll like playing for my old friend Jimmy Wilson.

"I really don't know much about the National league, for I never thought I would be in it," Foxx continued. "In fact being traded anywhere was a matter that never occurred to me."

Foxx, now sidelined by a fractured rib, his reward for his most recent display of teamsmanship—serving as a batting practice pitcher in the Yankee Stadium last week, has assured his new bosses he will report in Chicago tomorrow and will be ready to perform for them early next week.

During their phone conversation, Foxx was warned that he was coming into a curve-ball league. "Don't worry about that," he replied. "It won't bother me."

And that was the only boast Foxx made as he prepared to transfer from the younger to the older circuit.

"I regret I have to leave Boston and the American league after all these years," he said. "But I'll still be in the majors."

LOTTERY

portionate share of the prize if the ticket's number is drawn.

Two wheels are used in the draw. From one of these the numbers are drawn and from the other the prizes. The smallest prizes and the smallest number of prizes are drawn in the first class, reserving the largest prizes and the largest number of prizes for the final class. In order to have a chance of winning a major prize, the full price of the ticket must be paid.

Lottery loans combine the features of a government bond issue and a prize draw. The government floats a long-term loan agreeing to pay certain purchasers, selected by lot, various amounts in excess of the purchase price. Owners of the remaining bonds receive the face value of the bond upon maturity, or the face value plus interest at a very low rate. Funds for the prizes are obtained in the case of non-interest bearing lottery loans from the interest on the subscribed capital. In interest-bearing lottery loans funds are obtained from the difference between the low rate of interest offered and the higher rate it would otherwise be necessary to pay. In most lottery loans the drawing takes place in two sections separated by a period of months. The series is drawn first; the winning numbers in the series are drawn later.

Ernst Seelig, considered an authority on lotteries, points out that "whereas the smaller lotteries and the numbers lotteries are patronized chiefly by the proletariat ... the patrons of the class lottery and the lottery loan are drawn chiefly from the middle class." Experience has shown, he further explains, that winners in the numbers lottery are not likely to make thrifty use of unearned capital gained in lotteries, but that in middle class circles, because of characteristic habits of thrift, it is more likely that lottery prizes will be employed for capital accumulation.

Last surviving legal lottery in the United States was the Louisiana lottery.

What the effect of state constitutional or statutory provisions would be, should the federal government decide to experiment with a national lottery is not clear. In all probability, the experiment would be undertaken as an emergency measure and all restrictions would be suspended or circumvented.

FINAL ASSEMBLY AT CENTRAL JR. HIGH

$200 in War Bonds Placed in Board's Care.

Two $100 war bonds purchased recently by the student body and faculty of Central Junior High school were presented to Supt. F. E. Holt for deposit in the board of education deposit box in the closing assembly this afternoon at which grade cards were distributed.

With the presentation went a statement signed by the student officers and faculty urging that future student bodies of the school give serious consideration to the further purchase of bonds during the time their sale remains a necessity.

"We hereby instruct the custodian of said bonds to deliver them to the faculty and the student body of Central Junior High school, either upon the demand of said faculty and student body or the maturity date of said war bonds," the statement read.

"We wish to extend greetings and best wishes to you who will receive these bonds. It is our earnest prayer that the freedom which we so greatly cherish will always be yours to enjoy."

Mr. Holt accepted stewardship of the bonds and later spoke to the assembly on "Youth's Present Responsibilities."

Money to purchase the bonds, Series F, was realized from the school's magazine campaign and from funds received in connection with the ninth grade plays.

Principal W. E. Orcutt presented service awards to a large group of pupils.

grams in such a way that the production of escort ships will catch up with the production of merchant ships, and then keep pace with it.

There is no use building ships in 60 days for the Germans to sink in 12 minutes, there is no use building ships without providing the means to protect them. The lives of the sailors are too precious and the lost cargoes are too expensive for us to accept the prodigal delusion of thinking we can make more ships than the enemy can destroy.

In this field, we find that the facilities for building merchant ships are now greater than the supply of materials. We find also that the facilities for building navy escort ships, including small aircraft carriers are less than the visible need for such ships.

If we look further into the problem we find that the merchant shipyards have developed their great facilities because in many of them the principle of mass production have been brilliantly followed. We find also that in the navy department ship construction has not yet been adapted to mass production, though escort vessels and aircraft carriers are intrinsically very well suited to mass production.

The remedy would seem to be, then, to turn to Admiral Vickery and have him use some part of the shipbuilding facilities and some of the ships. Here he has happily discovered, to make escorts and small carriers for the navy.

It is hard to see any reasonable objection to this proposal. It would provide the navy with mass produced ships that the navy needs to have produced in massive numbers. Moreover, by bringing merchant and naval construction into a combined program there is good reason for thinking that steel could be allocated and then used more efficiently. For it is believed that if Mr. Nelson and the WPB had the means of knowing all the time when, where and how all the steel is actually being used, there would be more steel for ships than there now appears to be.

RULES EASED ON DELIVERIES

ODT Modifies Order Affecting Distribution of Newspapers.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 2—Office of defense transportation has modified its ban against newspapers making more than one delivery to news dealers daily.

It offered two alternative plans, one of permitting newspapers one to four deliveries a day, depending on the size of the area served, but requiring a 25 per cent reduction in delivery mileage.

The other would permit an unlimited number of deliveries but require a 40 per cent reduction in mileage compared with the same month last year. The milage cuts would apply only to motor or horsedrawn rubber-tired vehicles.

The alternative plans became effective yesterday, as was the original order.

Under the first, newspapers serving a commercial area having a population under 200,000 by census bureau figures will be permitted only one delivery a day.

Papers serving an area of 200,000 to 700,000 population will be allowed two deliveries; those serving 700,000 to 2,000,000, three deliveries, and those serving an area of more than 2,000,000 population, four deliveries.

Under the first, newspaper delivery callbacks are prohibited.

POSTPONED from June 1 to July 1 the effective date of the over-the-road delivery order which prohibits trucks from making a return trip with less than 75 per cent capacity load. Until July 1, trucks may return empty if there is no cargo available for the home trip.

EXEMPTED from the local delivery order trucks engaged exclusively in the pickup or delivery of telegraphic, radio and cable communications and the United States mails.

SET JULY 1 as the effective date of the milage reduction program for coal trucks, a change intended to step up coal deliveries in June. Firms delivering solid fuels must reduce their mileage per ton delivered in any month 25 per cent under the average monthly mileage per ton in 1941.

EXTENDED jurisdiction of the local delivery order 25 miles beyond the corporate limits of municipalities, and provided that retail deliveries made directly to the consumer are to be considered as local deliveries.

EXTENDED to July 1 the effective date of the local delivery order with respect to trucks equipped for the transportation of bulk liquids.

MODIFIED the local delivery order to permit a local carrier to make an additional delivery on the same day to the same point if the commodity transported requires the use of a vehicle exclusively adapted for the transportation of such commodity. (A plate glass truck, for instance).

CLARIFIED the local delivery order to permit one delivery a day from any one point of origin to any one point of destination.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Navy Cruisers are built in two classes, light and heavy, the latter displacing about 10,000 tons. Our navy has about an equal number of light and heavy Cruisers, the 10,000 ton Cruiser costing approximately $20,000,000. Many Cruisers are under construction and many more are needed.

To pay for these speedy and powerful ships with their heavy guns and armament we must buy War Bonds. Citizens of a large town or a given community, working in unity, could buy one of these ships for the Navy if they put at least ten percent of their income in War Bonds every pay day.

STOCKS IGNORE BRIGHT NEWS

Market Is Generally Sluggish as Steels and Rails Turn Soft.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, June 2—The stock market generally ignored more good war news today and comparative softness of steels and rails brought considerable hesitancy in other groups.

There were a number of new lows for the year or longer including Great Northern, Southern Pacific, Kennecott and Youngstown Sheet.

Backward were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Douglas Aircraft, Westinghouse and Eastman Kodak.

General Motors made a new 1942 top by a shade and support was given American Telephone, Sears Roebuck, Woolworth and American Can.

One financial observer said that, although speculators and investors in securities were none too sure the world conflict would come to an end either next year or in 1944, the majority was taking a longer-term view of the international picture with a slight leaning to an early-peace possibility.

WHEAT PRICES GAIN, THEN TURN LOWER

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, June 2—After gaining as much as a cent a bushel in early trading, wheat futures again turned reactionary and prices slumped more than a cent a bushel today.

Just before the final gong, July wheat sold at $1.15⅛, establishing another new seasonal low. All deliveries of rye also broke sharply into new low ground for the season.

The weakness of grains and soybeans was attributed to a downturn of around $2 a bale in cotton. On the scale down, prices for wheat and rye touched off stop loss selling.
